

Later Living on your own terms, in the idyllic area of Cranleigh, Surrey

ADVERTORIAL FEATURE

Nestling in this quintessential English Village, on the edge of the rolling Surrey Hills, our Renaissance Cranleigh Coves homes combine village life with all the advantages of small town living. Claimed by some to be the biggest village in England, Cranleigh benefits from being large enough to sustain an especially vibrant social life and cultural offerings, alongside leisure opportunities and retreats in nature. With department stores, artisan food shops, an arts centre, leisure centre and extensive green spaces, Cranleigh has plenty of activities to keep you feeling inspired.

Cranleigh Coves is a stylish collection of contemporary later living homes with beautifully designed, bright and spacious apartments, offering an independent lifestyle, as part of a sociable and welcoming community. All aspects of Cranleigh Coves have been designed with comfort, contentment and wellness in mind. Homes have access to beautifully landscaped shared grounds and each two-bedroom home additionally features either a balcony or a terrace. These amazing spaces bring light and nature flooding into the apartments, offering a real sense of wellbeing.

A prime benefit of living in this development is the shared sense of community and friendship with neighbours. Homeowners have the best of both worlds; the option of spending the day on their own if they feel the need, but also having the ability to be with and spend time with other like minded individuals. With a dedicated Lifehost as the first point of contact for any queries, there will always be someone on hand for local area knowledge and to bring the community together, making sure everyone is included.
